This Agreement is between you Jeffrey Chang (Student) and Bootcamp Education, Inc. (dba Dev Bootcamp) regarding your Ruby on Rails training for the period starting July 15 – September 13, 2013.

PREREQUISITE
Dev Bootcamp provides an intensive, ten week training program to Student in various skills related to web building applications and requires an assessment of the Student as a prerequisite to admission into the Dev Bootcamp training program. This prerequisite to admission will require Student to spend approximately 100 hours of work/study time prior to the assessment and does not guarantee admission into the Dev Bootcamp training program. The assessment provides the Student and Dev Bootcamp the opportunity to determine if the Dev Bootcamp training program is a good fit for all concerned. If the assessment does not qualify Student for the Dev Bootcamp training program, the Student will be provided a full tuition refund.

TRAINING PROGRAM
Dev Bootcamp is committed to providing intensive, hands-on training in its San Francisco location to Student, Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., during the training period. The training program will consist of a combination of lectures, curated content (books, screencasts, and tutorials), exercises, challenges, games, code competitions and reviews. Training will be instructor led and student driven. There is no requirement for after-hours work, but it is expected that because of the intense nature of the training program Student might need to study/work evenings and weekends.

The training will include some physical exercises and challenges that are optional.
